3. Language of instruction

The University Rovira i Virgili is located in Tarragona, Catalonia. This region is characterized, among other things, by the coexistence of two different co-official languages: Spanish and Catalan.

Both of them are languages of instruction and examination. Lecturers can freely choose which language they use in their lectures. However, exchange students can ask them to use one language in particular and professors might agree to this request. Sometimes in case there were two groups of the course (morning and afternoon group) if the professor is the same one, the afternoon groups can be taught in Spanish. Exchange students are advised to have a basic working knowledge of Spanish when they arrive in Tarragona.

4. Course catalogue

A course catalogue, containing the course list of our faculty, is available at:

<http://www.fcj.urv.cat/> → “Guia docent” → “Ensenyaments” → Choose the degree you are interested in (“Grau” or “Màster oficial”) → “Assignatures” → Course list

Exchange students can freely choose the courses they want to attend, as long as they belong to “Grau” (= Bachelor’s degree) or “Màster” (= Master’s degree). “Llicenciatura” subjects are no longer available.

They can even attend lectures of other degrees of other faculties, although most of the chosen courses have to belong to the Faculty of legal Sciences. To consult course catalogues of other faculties, follow these instructions:

<http://www.urv.cat/> → “Facultats i escoles” → Choose the faculty you are interested in → “Guia docent” → “Ensenyaments” → Choose the degree you are interested in (“Grau” or “Màster oficial”) → “Assignatures” → Course list

5. Subjects

There are two types of subjects: compulsory and optional subjects.

5.1. Compulsory subjects

Compulsory subjects are always held in Spanish or Catalan (see Language of Instruction and Appendix A). However, most of the bibliography for them is also available in Spanish in our library. Also, some books can be found in other languages.

All compulsory subjects are divided in two groups: morning group and afternoon group. Both groups progress at the same pace, but they can differ in the professor who usually imparts the lecture and the evaluation system. At the beginning of the academic year, each student has to choose which group wants to be in for each subject in particular (morning or afternoon group).

5.2. Optional Subjects

Most of the optional subjects are held in Spanish or Catalan (see Language of Instruction and Appendix B). Contrary to compulsory subjects, there is only one group in optional subjects. There is the option to choose master subjects which are held mostly in Spanish or Catalan, but you can find some also in English (see Appendix C).

5.3. Subjects in English

This academic year the Faculty of Legal Sciences do not offer any course taught in English. Nevertheless other faculties offer courses taught in English, especially in the economic ones, although the faculty is located in another city, in Reus.

5.4. Timetable

You can obtain a recreation of your timetable by using the following application:

https://www.urv.cat/evia/jsp/comu/seleccio_curs.jsp?opcio=1 → Choose the academic year (“Curs acadèmic”) → Choose the faculty you are interested in → Choose the degree you are interested in (“Grau” or “Màster oficial”. “Llicenciatura” subjects are no longer available!) → Select the subjects you want to attend → Click on “Continuar” → Choose the group you want to be in for each subject¹ → Click on “Continuar” → Select the period of which you want to see your timetable² → Your timetable!

² Practical exercises (“Seminaris/Problemes ECTS”) usually start two or three weeks later than theoretical lessons (“Classe magistral”). Therefore, only “Classes magistrals” are imparted during the first weeks of each semester; the timetable might seem to be a little empty.

6. Language courses

The Linguistic Office (“Servei Lingüístic”), offers Spanish and Catalan language courses. It is located on the third floor of the D-1 building of the Catalunya Campus, where the Faculty legal Sciences is located.

A basic Catalan course (“Programa Gràcies”) is offered free of charge during the two first weeks of each semester. For other Spanish and Catalan language courses taking place during the semester, a fee must be paid in order to enrol.

For further details please consult the following website: <http://www.linguistic.urv.cat/>
